

The Italian taste
and mastery...

in the third millennium

Our peninsula has always stood out for its amazing traditional craftsmanship. Wood craftsmen are still passing on their passion, since they know they are the witnesses of one of the major Italian arts. It takes time for companies to become renowned in the market. Since 1966 the Segato family has handed down its values from one generation to another, making each single product a unique masterpiece.

Processing
and testing phases

To grant the stability and the continuity of finishes over time, we use certified materials of the highest quality. All of our creations are assembled and tested before being delivered. They are shipped together with a photo book, which gives evidence of all the processing phases.
